The lagoon stood motionless when this photograph was taken by Pete McArthur, but soon afterwards the Carmel River broke through to meet the ocean . . . or did the ocean break through to the river . . . anyway, the two did meet and now again pose grave dangers to the unwary who idly walk too near the channel. The resulting current is strong; the surf, massive. It would behoove everyone taking a leisurely stroll along this beach to be extremely cautious and not wander dangerously near the connection of ocean and river.

Jack's Peak Fund Getting There With YOUR Contributions

It looks as though a last-ditch telephone and doorbell-ringing campaign yesterday and today will bring in the remaining $1600 of the $45,000 needed to complete the down payment on the future county park at Jack's Peak. Also needed is about $3500 in interest, taxes, title insurance and escrow costs.

The Carmel City Council last night voted to urge all citizens to support the campaign to save one of the few remaining points of natural beauty from commercial development.

Councilman Herb Blanks encouraged everyone to donate anything. "It doesn't have to be a thousand dollars. If everyone donated one dollar, we would be over."

All contributors are urged to mail checks to P.O. Box Save Jack's Peak, Monterey 93940. Checks should be made to either Nature Conservancy, Save Jack's Peak or Monterey Foundation, Save Jack's Peak. The organizations are co-sponsoring the campaign.

Contributions of any size, from individuals, organizations, or business firms are needed, said John R. McDaniels, campaign co-chairman.

During the past week, the Audubon Society voted $10,000 to the Save Jack's Peak

Los Indios A Success

The Carmel Cultural Commission and Sunset Manager Cole Weston brought to Carmel a most entertaining concert, Los Indios Tabajaras, who thrilled a near capacity house last Sunday evening. The two guitarists played their native Brazilian folk songs, popular music and very difficult classical selections.

The city's portion of ticket sales was sufficient to cover the city's cost of bringing Los Indios to Carmel.

Cole and the Cultural Commission deserve praise for a job well done for 1967.

Ordinance to Go On Ballot April 9

By April 10 of this year, we will all know whether the Sunset and Motel Ordinances will become law, or will have to wait for a full year before the matter again can be taken up.

The Carmel City Council last night agreed to put the two ordinances before the citizens for a vote. The two will appear on the ballot of the April 9 city elections.

After it was decided to put the ordinances to a vote, Eben Whittlesey moved to appoint two councilmen to prepare a 300-word argument for the ordinances. Whittlesey wanted this argument to point up the majority of the Council's views and what they have been working on for so long. Gunnar Norberg wanted to know if the minority would be heard, and was assured that, under law, cost of maintaining the roads, policing the area, etc. has necessitated the change. Weekly, monthly and yearly passes may be purchased from Del Monte Properties Company at a reduced rate.

MARKET COMMENTARY

Dow Theory Forecasts issued a bulletin February 9 advising clients of a change from bull to bear market trend interpretation. They suggest an increase in cash reserves to 50 per cent.

Theatre Review

THOROUGHLY MODERN MILLIE, Carol Channing steals the show playing an eccentric wealthy widow, but also around to help in this comedy of the 1920's are Julie Andrews, who is delightful, James Fox, Bea Lillie and John Garvin. Some of the songs are from the period.

TO SIR, WITH LOVE, Sidney Poitier plays a school teacher in a rough district of London. Finally, by treating his unruly class as adults rather than as children, he wins their confidence and respect. The story is pleasant but sentimental.

PENTHOUSE, action takes place in a Penthouse where two out-married spend the night. They are invaded by two young men, bright, strange and probably homosexuals, who arrange a particularly unpleasant day for the illicit lovers.

THE SPIRIT IS WILLING, among the vacation visitors to a New England town are a New Yorker, his wife and their long suffering adolescent son. The family has rented a big old house, sight unseen, unaware that it is haunted by ghosts from an unhappy event that occurred over a century before.

CARMEN BABY, A blatant group of depraved unknowns go through their paces with great enthusiasm. Must be fun to make these films. Undoubtedly more fun making than seeing.

THE GOOD, THE BAD AND THE UGLY, starring Clint Eastwood and others to make up a trio of ruthless killers who roam the West during the last years of the Civil War. Technicolor.

THE BEST OF BRITISH FILMS is a collection of classic films selected by discriminating moviegoers as their favorites, each of which has left its mark on the history of the screen.

JUNGLE BOOK, a Walt Disney cartoon version of the beloved story by Rudyard Kipling. The voices are Phil Harris, Louis Prima, George Sanders and Sterling Holloway. Primarily a children's show.

THE GRADUATE, interesting, if not completely compelling, comedy. Dustin Hoffman is excellent in the title role. Anne Bancroft is extremely good as the woman who seduces him and Katharine Ross is attractive as her daughter with whom Hoffman falls in love. The picture argues that all over 30 are dishonest, corrupt and unthinking.

WAIT UNTIL DARK, a suspenseful thriller in which a blind girl, trapped by thugs who try to make her reveal the whereabouts of a cache of heroin, outwits her torturers.

YOU'RE A BIG BOY NOW is a "new wave" omod, lavishing major acting and directing skills on an offbeat story resolutely aimed at teenagers but poorly suited to them. A clerk shown awkwardly wooing a wrongly idealized actress-dancer in a story treating a complex problem.

Clint Eastwood links up with Lee Van Cleef and Eli Wallach (as Tuco) to make up a trio of ruthless killers who roam the West during the last years of the Civil War in "The Good, The Bad and The Ugly," in Technicolor and Techniscope at the Valley Cinema.

OBITUARIES

Elizabeth Doyle Cass Gibson, curator of the Carmel Art Association Gallery during World War II, died in Aptos Sunday. During the '40's she was active in art, drama and music programs for servicemen. She founded an outdoor art show for soldiers in the Court of the Golden Bough. A Stanford graduate, she also was a PTA leader and had taught at the former Bay school.

Besides her husband, Robert Gibson, she is survived by two children, Timothy Cass of Los Angeles and Mrs. Anthony Gilbert of San Francisco and four grandchildren.

William L. Ware, one of Carmel's colorful oldtimers, died Sunday morning after a short illness at the age of 90.

Mr. Ware, who had made his home on Dolores near 10th Avenue since 1956, was born in Orinoco, Minn. on Aug. 26, 1877. In spite of his advanced age he could be seen strolling regularly on the beach and walking up-town from his home sometimes twice a day, rain or shine.

He had worked as a writer for the Santa Monica and Los Angeles chambers of commerce before retirement. He is survived by a son, Leon of San Juan Capistrano; four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Another son, Harlan Ware, Carmel author, died last year.

Funeral services were held in Paul Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Jerome F. Politzer of St. George Episcopal Church in Salinas officiating. Burial took place in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Glendale.

Friends wishing to make contributions in Mr. Ware's memory may do so to the Central Mission Trails Heart Association, Box 191, in Monterey or to the charity of their choice.

APOLOGY

Robert Trenner, Undersheriff James Rodriguez, Captain Darrel Smith of the Salinas Sheriff's Office and Captain Harold Duncan of the Salinas Police Department.

These men along with Carmel's Officer Boyle have made plans for Carmel to be host to over 200 law enforcement men and their wives May 26-29 at the Holiday Inn at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

The occasion will bring together the elite of California's law enforcement men of the California Chapter, FBI National Academy Associates. FBI Chief Hoover will send his assistant directors and training men for this Annual Retraining Session covering such subjects as recent court decisions and new police methods.

Chief Klaumann is first vice president of the California Chapter and it is anticipated that he will be elected as the president at this May's convention.

Letter To Editor

Dear Sirs:

As a representative of the growing teen-age youth group at All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel, I am wondering if you and your readers could help us acquire a name for our group. Unfortunately, we have been unable to come up with original names by ourselves.

Thank you very much.
Sincerely yours,

TRAFFIC REPORT

The Carmel Traffic Committee, at their meeting on February 2, made the following recommendations to the City Council:

1. That stop signs be installed on 4th and 6th Avenues to stop eastbound and westbound traffic entering Carpenter Street.

2. That San Carlos to 13th, to Mission and to Rio Road, be designated as the truck route south of Ocean Avenue and be so marked.

3. That the city recommend to the County and the State that a traffic signal light be installed at the intersection of Highway 1 and Rio Road and that a directional sign be installed south of Rio Road on Highway 1 to indicate to northbound traffic that Rio Road is an entrance to Carmel.

4. That the existing stop sign on Ocean Avenue for westbound traffic entering Carpenter Street be removed and that stop signs be installed to stop northbound and southbound traffic on Carpenter and Forest Road entering Ocean Avenue. Further, that the standard State-approved "intersection" signs be installed on Ocean Avenue to warn of the Carpenter Street intersection, with an additional "caution" sign to be installed on Ocean Avenue east of Carpenter where the present "stop ahead" sign is now installed.

That the "curve" sign on 13th Avenue at San Carlos be changed to the standard "right turn" arrow.

6. That the existing signs stopping northbound and southbound traffic on San Carlos Street at 10th Avenue be removed and that stop signs be installed to stop eastbound and westbound traffic entering San Carlos from 10th.

7. That all of the stop signs being removed be retained until at least two weeks after the new stop signs have been installed.

Dorothy Waring

New Saleslady With Mustard Realty Firm

James Mustard Real Estate Company has announced their association with Mrs. Dorothy Waring as a saleslady. Mrs. Waring has been employed in business for over 30 years, the last four of which were as a secretary for James Mustard.

She finally decided to obtain her license to sell that precious commodity known as homes with Carmel charm, the property she heard so much about. Mrs. Waring enjoys people and is eager to further develop with integrity and good will that sixth sense that knows just the right house for the right buyer.

She is a long time resident of Carmel and has a daughter Jo Ann who is a sophomore at Carmel High School. Her husband Don is associated with Kaiser Refractories at Moss Landing.

Underwater Picture At P. G. Museum

"Adventures of a Skin-diver" is the title of the current underwater photographic show at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History. The photographs are the efforts of Mr. Edward Zimbelman of Los Gatos.

The startling colors and abundance of life found just below the surface of the world's oceans has opened a new vista for the adventurous diver-photographer who quickly becomes a strong advocate for the protection of this fragile environment.

Theatre Sunday evening.

It was equally inspiring to notice how Miss von Ruh transformed a gloomy school room into the cozy, informal artist studio. She has erased any resemblance of an elementary school room, an admirable job to say the least.

Soothing music fills the room, and if one chooses he may sit on a comfortable sofa and glance through art magazines; scan the walls, absorbing the beauty of her oil paintings; watch, before his own eyes, the construction of a painting on canvas; chat with her in a very informal atmosphere, or browse through many of her lovely water colors of various Carmel and Fisherman's Wharf scenes.

We are fortunate to have in addition to Miss von Ruh, another artist as well as, a pottery and sculpture workshop, but we need more artists (weavers, potters, sculptors, woodcarvers, etc.) to follow these pioneers. Although fortunate in the above respect, we are not so fortunate in that all the rooms are occupied. To name a few occupants, the Bach Festival office, Community Theatre office, writer-artist studio, and ballet studios.

Wouldn't it be interesting if most of the rooms were occupied by artists actually at work so that some of us less talented residents could watch creativity at work and appreciate the artists' abilities. If only this were, to materialize, then maybe the residents of Carmel could truly boast of a CULTURAL CENTER, and each of us could enjoy visiting the Center more often. B.W.

Voices in the Dark

by Mona Williams

There is a splendor in some dying things,
When a high courage quickens the last breath
And beauty finds her old sharp poignancy
In some strange subtle unity with death.
A pity that love does not die like this,
But lingers, wasting, one can hardly see
It go—as when we watch an ebbing tide
And see the waves still moving shoreward, so
The eye is fooled. But under that chill kiss Relentlessly the shoreline slips to sea.

"Voices in the Dark" new book by Mona Williams, one of Carmel's distinguished authors from which the above poem is an excerpt, is a love story in blank verse. Based on the classic plot, the thoughts of each, the wife, the husband, "the other Woman," are expressed in smoothly metered lines which sound completely natural and uncontrived.

Psychologically sound, the characterizations become gradually more complex, but the story line is easy to follow and is never obscured by the poetry.

Mrs. Williams wrote "Voices in the Dark" about three years ago for her own pleasure, with no thought of publishing it. She showed it to her close friend Martin Flavin, the playwright, who told her it was the best thing she ever did, and who encouraged her to have it published.

Her Hollywood agent liked it but considered it completely uncommercial. Her New York agent refused to touch it, saying there was no market for anything poetic.

Mrs. Williams put it aside until she happened to read an article in Time magazine that Helen Gurney "Hurly Gurdy" Brown of "Sex and the Office Girl" fame, was doing experimental things as editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine. She decided to send it in without an agent.

Mrs. Brown liked it very much, but considered it much too long for publication in the magazine. Mona had the task of cutting her creation in half. She managed to do so without ruining it, and the August issue sold out in no time, leading to a publishing contract for

Mexican Vacation

"Lilli," Mrs. Bob Smith, and Betsy Pringle left today for Mexico where they will meet the Frank Lloyds in Puerto Vallarta, and where Lilli will look for interesting things to bring back for her boutique.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allen will be in charge of "Lilli's" while they are gone, but next month they plan a trip to Mexico along with the Colden Whitmans, Dr. and Mrs. Donald W. Schma and several others.

Younger Lloyds Get Together

The four grown children of Marjory and Frank Lloyd who have been traveling in Central America, gathered with their respective families for a brother and sisters' reunion recently at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel L. (Lucinda) Gornel.

Present at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Francis (Skip and Sue) Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. S.F.B. (Mardi and Sam) Morse, III, and Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel (Jennefer and Nat) Baylis and son Lloyd, and of course Lucinda's small children, Michael and Anna Williams.

There was no special occasion. They started getting together on Mardi's 21st birthday, not too long ago, and found that they liked it.

Marjory Lloyd called them last week to say that they had left Guatemala and were headed for Puerto Vallarta.

Off for Hawaii

Colonel and Mrs. George W. Vaughn and Mrs. John J. Outcalt, of Carmel were among the passengers aboard Matson Lines' luxury liner SS Lurline sailing for Hawaii from San Francisco via Los Angeles Harbor on February 11.

the uncut version with Doubleday and Company.

Mona Williams lives with her husband, Henry Meade Williams, himself a well-known writer, up on the Mesa facing the Valley coast range mountains. She is slender, red haired, and sensitively charming, retaining just a suggestion of her native Virginia accent.

She will be present at an autograph party in her honor, to be given at Wells' Bookshop, which her husband owned and ran for many years, on Friday, February 16, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. She will autograph "hard cover" copies of "Voices in the Dark." M.H.

No Rest for Peace Corps

Nancy Bibb was able to devote two weeks to resting up from a two year stint with the Peace Corps in Afghanistan where conditions were primitive to say the least.

But now she is off to Estes Park, Colorado where she is training a group to work in Afghanistan. In the latter part of March she will accompany the group there and stay with them for two months to get them started and then she will be able to come home and really relax for awhile.

Local Debutantes

Pamela Ann Wedlake, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward H. Wedlake of Pebble Beach; Wendy Morrow Cochrane, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Cochrane III of Pebble Beach, and Christine Durney of Beverly Hills and Carmel Valley will be among the debutantes presented at the San Francisco Debutante Ball in June which will benefit Presbyterian Hospital.

Christine and her parents were recent guests of Sir Alec and Lady Douglas-Horne in Scotland, where they went grouse shooting. The Douglas-Homes were entertained on the Peninsula last spring in connection with his lecture tour.

Fourth Generation Valley Marriage

Richard B. Meadows, Jr., born and raised in Carmel Valley, who went to school from Carmelo through Carmel High School, grandson of Roy Meadows of Carmel Valley, whose father was here "before the Indians," was married recently at Carmel Presbyterian Church.

The Reverend Dr. George Hunter Hall officiated at the 2 o'clock ceremony. The reception was held in the Richelle Room at Highlands Inn.

Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Meadows, now of San Jose. He is now employed at Lockheed Aircraft in Sunnyvale.

His bride, Marilyn Ruth Green, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Green of China Lake. She attended Pepperdine College, and has been working at Hughes Aircraft.

Marilyn wore a dress of white satin which flowed into a chapel-length train. For her "something old," she wore a petticoat of her great-grandmother's. She carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids. She was attended by three bridesmaids. Richard had three San Jose friends for his ushers.

Molly Helm Passes Candles

Memorial Exhibit At Association

The Carmel Art Association has just hung a very important exhibit which can be seen for the next four weeks. It is a memorial show, honoring the artist members who passed on during 1967. Our art community suffered greatly at their loss.

Through the generosity of the owners, The Carmel Art Association has been loaned significant works by each of these men and women.

There are several sensitive and tenderly beautiful portraits by Sam Manning as well as a golden scene of Paris, Catherine Seideneck is represented by handsome European city scenes. There are the lively and frankly humorous oils of Harold Landaker, Mexican primitives by Maxine Albro, Laura Maxwell's florals as well as fine examples of Liesel Wurmann's sculpture, Myron Oliver and Frank Moore are well represented by several fine works typical of their individual styles.

This is a rare opportunity to see excellent examples of the works of these artists who have left behind a treasured heritage.

Drunken drivers are more common at night. Fifty per cent or more of all highway fatalities involve a drinking driver.

Crafts Guild

Pottery, sculpture, hand-weaving and jewelry made by members were shown and discussed at the last meeting of the Carmel Crafts Guild in the Carmel Art Association Galleries.

New officers George Davis, president, Rhea (Mrs. Rolf) Ullestad, Gerald Allen, Noel van Bibber, Louise (Mrs. Matt) Smith, Mrs. Ione Lewis and Mrs. Avis Ballard were elected.

Others participating in the "show and discuss" were J. R. Landman, Dora (Mrs. Warren) Crabtree, Doris Paul Ormsby, Howell Armorer, Roscoe Russell, Eve (Mrs. Frank) Bell, and Carol, (Mrs. Joseph) Ullestad.

Spence Paintings

The Carmel Foundation Town House is showing paintings in oil done by Mrs. O. L. Spence (Mary Jane) of Pebble Beach during the month of February.

Mrs. Spence majored in Art at San Jose State and the University of Louisiana and won a scholarship at age 18 at Chicago Art Institute. She studied under N. Eric Obock, Mr. George Harris, John DeVincenzi and Alexander Napote.

Her work is currently on display at the Royal Hawaiian Art Gallery, Honolulu; Artists Cooperative, Inc., San Francisco; Fickett Gallery, Beverly Hills and the Galerie Del Monte, Santa Barbara.

Theatre Art Blooms at Studio

"Generation" was somewhat irritating not because it was poorly done, quite to the contrary, nor was it due to the script, which was excellent; but it was probably because it dealt with the ever-perplexing problem facing the social structure of our country today... the generation gap.

This script accurately hits the innermost feelings of any alert audience, be they hippie, "liberal minded" or merely business minded people.

"Generation" dealt with the plot and plight of an advertising executive whose daughter was preparing to meet the stork only several days after her marriage to a young man who deplored the "system."

The father, played by Richard Barratt, was most capable as an actor and could not ever have hoped to capture his character any more competently. Never have I seen a more natural job of acting on the stages of the Studio Theatre.

James Trivette and Anne Brown, husband and wife in real life, seemed to follow exactly his words spoken to this reviewer earlier: "This is the story of my life." Both were remarkable as the newlyweds, and both seemed quite sincere about the characters which they portrayed.

The supporting cast, as they should in any production, came on stage and never missed a beat, a difficult task indeed. Kent Seavey, curator of the Carmel Museum of Art, and in the play, Dr. Stan Herman, took advantage of every laugh line available to him, as did James Lancina as the editor assigned to entice the young "hippie" to become a part of the "system" by publishing his (funny) poetry. His outstanding display of acting ability brought rounds of applause as he left the stage.

Rick Wolf, a student at Monterey Peninsula College, took the role of the public relations agent for the advertising firm of which the father was employed. Rick's sly grins and his confident movement, as well as his magnificent delivery of lines, rounded out the applauded supporting cast.

The setting and lighting by Robert Evans Jr. was, as usual, inspirational and exceedingly well in keeping with the atmosphere of the production.

Directed by Don Osborn, "Generation" makes his fourth straight successful play at the Studio Theatre.

To grasp the full intent of author William Goodhart, "Generation" should be read, for many of the meaningful lines, almost every one, needs to be scrutinized with a careful eye and an alert mind. It was obviously written seriously with laugh lines popping up as the seriousness grew.

Merilyn Brown Exhibit

Paintings by local artist Merilyn Brown are on exhibit in the library lobby at Santa Catalina School for Girls. This exhibit containing paintings all done during the last year, in acrylic, watercolor and mixed media, will be at the school through February 23. The library is open Monday through Thursday until 9 p.m. Fridays until 6 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 11 to 5 p.m.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

Candlelit Colonial Supper

To honor our first President, George Washington, let's plan a Candlelit Colonial Supper for February 22. A charming old cookbook "Housekeeping in Old Virginia" is our guide, for nothing could be more authentic, having been published in 1879 and now out of print. It contains the mysteries of Old Virginia housewifery as Virginia cooking has always been famous. If she is the mother of presidents, she is equally the home of good living.

At Mt. Vernon Martha Washington saw to it that her famed Plantation Suppers did credit to her husband's equally well known love of good food. These delightful gatherings meant glamour, candlelight, snowy damask, gleaming silver served with typical Old Dominion lavishness. To keep up with today, you will probably use substitutes for the old time long cooking hours in our servantless homes.

Liqueurs

If Smithfield or hickory cured Virginia country hams are difficult or too expensive to include, use any good cured ham. Canned hams are excellent and economical. Slice ham paper thin and serve it on your best platter garnished with watercress. We are giving a fine fried chicken recipe which is cooked in the morning, and plenty of it, served at room temperature. Blackeyed peas and southern greens may be produced from canned or frozen products. Use chopped collards for the greens, seasoned with grated nutmeg, salt and butter.

Virginia Fried Chicken

Use fresh, not frozen, young, cut-up frying chickens. Wash well and throw into mild salted water for about 30 min. Drain and dry with paper towels. Lay on a platter and sprinkle with salt, sifting flour thickly first on one side then on the other so flour will stick well. Put lard in heavy iron skillet, add few chicken pieces at a time, cover closely and fry until a fine amber color over low heat. Then turn each piece and cover, taking care to have chicken well done yet not scorched.

Eggplant Pudding

Quarter the eggplant and soak all day in salted water to extract bitterness. Then drain well, peel, parboil and chop fine; add 1 cup bread-crumbs to 2 cups eggplant with salt, pepper and butter to taste and enough milk to make a good batter. Bake in earthen dish 30 minutes. Serve hot.

Spoonbread

Four eggs, ¾ cup water-ground white cornmeal; 3 t. baking powder, 1½ t. salt. Mix well. Slowly add 1 qt. tepid milk. Stir again until smooth. Pour into 2 greased loaf pans. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven 30 minutes on lower shelf. Serve hot with pitcher of corn syrup. Serves six to eight.

Lobster Mousse

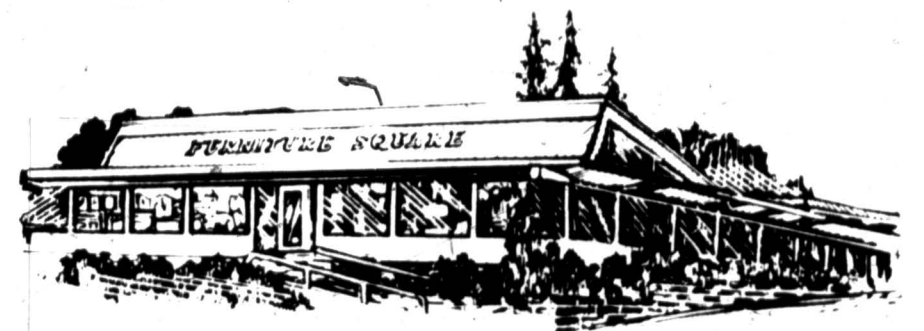

One can tomato soup; ½ cup sour cream; 1 tbsp. lemon juice; salt and pepper; 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin. In bowl, gradually blend soup into sour cream; add lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. Soften gelatin in 1 cup chicken broth (canned is easiest); stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat and blend with soup mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Add 1½ cups lobster meat in medium pieces (either cooked, fresh, frozen or canned); ½ cup chopped green onions; ½ cup sliced stuffed green olives and 2 chopped green pickles. Stir and pour into a 5-cup lobster or fish mold. Shrimp, cut up, or very small ones, may be added instead of lobster. Serves 6-8 as an hors d'oeuvre or salad. This recipe is adapted from an old southern one brought up to date, and won an Award of Merit scroll and ribbon at the recent Heart Fund hors d'oeuvre contest sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Hotel Association. The donor was your Party Plans editor.

For dessert, make a pound cake from packaged mix or buy one. Drain syrup from large can of bing, red or black cherries. Mix this syrup with brandy to taste. Pour over pitted cherries in glass bowl and chill until serving time. Serve on thick slices of pound cake. Pass whipped cream.

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremler

DON'T TAKE TEDDY is a moving story of Mikkel Grabseth and his brother Teddy. The neighbors say that Teddy should be locked up someplace; he's 15 and can only say a few words, spills his milk and can't be trusted alone. One day he accidentally hurts another boy and Mikkel takes Teddy and they run away so that the police won't lock Teddy up in an institution. The boys are finally found, and Mikkel gains a better understanding of the possibilities there are for Teddy to learn. It is written by Babbis Friis-Basstad and translated from the Norwegian.

Ffewddur Fflam is a likeable fellow, a king, who yearns for adventure. Failing the test given him by the High Council of Bards, he is given a chance to learn. The Chief Bard gives him a harp. Only after many adventures does he learn that every time he "adjusts the facts" a string breaks. "But facts are so gray and dreary, I can't help adding a little color . . ." says Fflam. (Most of the strings on his harp are broken by the time he returns home). The Chief Bard, who knows all about the king's adventures says, ". . . your tongue, alas, gallops faster than your head can rein it." But the King has learned something about himself and he carries the harp with him from that day forward. Lloyd Alexander wrote THE TRUTHFUL HARP and Evaline Ness did the illustrations. It's lots of fun to read.

A DOZEN DINOSAURS, has pictures by Paul Galdone and the text, in rhyme, by Richard Armour. It gives pronunciation of the difficult names of the prehistoric beasts pictured, as well as some information about them. For example:

"If Stegosaurus had few friends
And lacked the social knack,
One thing was sure: he made it hard
To pat him on the back."
or
"What took the pleasure out of life

For every living thing?
Tyrannosaurus Rex. (The "rex" Means he was boss, or king.)

A tyrant was Tyrannosaurus, Forever seeking food. The others, though they loved to chew, Weren't fond of being chewed."

James E. Seidelman and Grace Mintonye have two new craft books — CREATING WITH PAPER and CREATING MOSAICS. The directions and the illustrations are clear and there are some good ideas for using things which you have around the house, such as paper bags, Christmas wrapping paper, newspaper, buttons, etc. Adults might enjoy these, too.

WE'RE THE NEWEST—WE'RE THE OLDEST

Bud Marshall's Automobiles

(Formerly AUCTION CITY AUTO SALES)

Bud Marshall started business December 1955. He and his partner boasted a Grand Total of $600.00. The lot was sand and weeds. The office, an old 10 by 12 hot dog stand. Their lighting was a discarded string of Christmas Tree lights from the city of San Jose, and their desk and 3 chairs cost $5.50 from a used furniture store.

The property was purchased October 1963, remodeled December 1963, and in May 1964, Bud Marshall bought out his partner. Auction City Auto Sales was a suitable name when the cars were pre-war vintage, but not for the Clean, Late Models in inventory today.

Bud Marshall has the Nicest, Most Modern, Independent Automobile Agency on The Monterey Peninsula, and pride of ownership was the deciding factor in choosing our new name—Bud Marshall Automobiles. This is why we say, "We're the newest —we're the oldest, and we think we're the greatest!"

Please visit our lot and inspect the many clean, completely remodeled automobiles we carry for your selection.

1965 Pontiac Catalina, 2 plus 2, two-door hardtop. Automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes, radio, heater, factory air and Landau top.

One owner car with just over 20,000 miles.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

Yearbook Wins National Rating

The 1968 Spyglass, the student yearbook at RLS, received a second place award from the 33rd annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association Yearbook Competition as announced last week by Columbia University.

Scoring was divided into four parts: Design of the book, layout, content coverage and other areas such as creativity, advertising, printing, etc. (75 out of 90).

The book was edited by Jerry Merksamer of Sacramento. Also on the staff was Ed Rowe and Mark Coffey, co-editors for the 1968 book. The theme for this year will be Leadership. A feature story on the book will be presented shortly, but assistant editors Ken Dillon and Charles Savitt, along with business manager Mark Hornberger and photography editor Jim Booth report that the 1968 edition looks "great."

Speakers Do Well At Claremont

In a tournament rated as one of the three most important in California the Stevenson Forensic team had the best over-all record in individual events of any team in their league, with a tie for over-all honors in the league with Sequel of Santa Cruz.

Robert Howard in Oratory and Jim Russell in Dramatic both placed fifth in this demanding two-day event, while high scores went to Steve Dart and Lonnie Foy in Ex-temp, with John Cann in Dramatic and Joel Harris in Oratory also giving well-above-average performances. Howard and Foy, along with William Kondrat and Peter Cowden also debated.

Ski Team Win Led By Saviers

Following a week of fun and practice, the 1968 Ski Season was officially opened at Squaw Valley this past weekend, with Gerald Bearden and Pierre Saviers showing exceptional skill in leading the team to a victory against Tahoe Sierra. Ken Dillon, Dave Basham and Jim Coonan were in the top five. Others scoring high in competition included George Saviers, Mike Bohman and Gary Bechtel.

New Shop In Golden Bough Court

Delightful and unusual greeting cards are being featured by a new shop, Edy Lowder's, located across from The Candle Shop and back of Talbott's in The Golden Bough Court, Ocean Avenue near Monte Verde.

Edy Lowder's will be operated by Mrs. Darrell W. Lowder (Edith M.) and will present the distinctive line of Buzza Cardoza greeting cards and gift wraps, with stationery by Eaton Paper Company.

A variety of party papers and gift items will comprise other interesting selections, some from local artists that will include Dru Originals of Carmel Valley, and bring new design in place mats, napkins, spice dolls, etc.

Carmel residents are invited to leave messages in the Appointment Book which will be placed at the outside bench for their use during daytime hours, or to meet their friends there.

Innovation Conference

The importance of counseling at the elementary level was stressed at the day-long conference on improvement of instruction, sponsored by the Central Coast section of the California Teachers Association held recently at the Holiday Inn.

The full-time duties of a counselor were outlined by Helen Polynis of Bakersfield. "A counselor should be considered a friend in whom the child can confide honestly. It should be his primary job to devise every way he can think of to find out what is 'bugging' the child; through individual and small group counseling, classroom, yard and cafeteria observation, student organizations, conferences with teachers, home calls, recording and completing referrals, testing and special placements, planning a realistic educational program, and seeing that there are both immediate and long-term rewards for good work."

"Counseling at the elementary level would certainly reduce learning difficulties later on," said Dean Ross, executive secretary of CC section of CTA.

Other areas covered were linguistics, math, science and ESEA programs.

Winter's a pain.

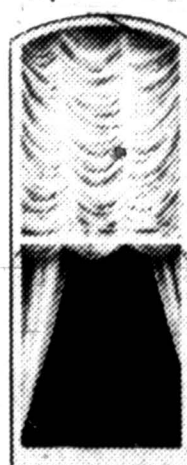

the birds
stop singing,

you can't go to the beach,

You're cooped-
up inside,

it gets dark earlier,

and your PG&E bills go up.

But look at the brighter side. Think of all the delicious hot meals, cozy warmth, television watching and other indoor comforts you're now enjoying. You're buying a little more PG&E energy to make winter a lot less painful. But with six reductions in our gas and electricity rates in the past five years—it's still the biggest bargain in your family budget.

STRICTLY FOR THE DOGS

By J. Wood

WHY TATTOO YOUR DOG?

There is no doubt in the dog world that the safest and most practical way to protect your dog from unscrupulous dognappers is tattooing. The greatest protection to the animal identified in this manner is that no legitimate laboratory and very few illegitimate labs will buy or accept a dog for experimentation that is so marked. The owner can either have his own Social Security number or his AKC registration number tattooed on the inner part of a back leg or inside the ear leather.

Tattooing by electric needle is painless. Anesthesia is not necessary. While the equipment makes a buzzing noise that may disturb some dogs, a tranquilizer can be administered, which will save time and effort. There are no after effects and there have been no reports that it can or does cause cancer.

After the dog is tattooed it is wise to register his or her number with the National Dog Registry, Box 55, Stanton, New Jersey. The charge is $3 for a two-year listing or $10 for a lifetime registration. As of a few months ago, every National Dog Registry registered dog that had been reported missing or found was reunited with its owner.

It is reported and known to be a fact that there have been dramatic reductions in stolen dogs in areas where it is known the dogs are tattooed.

Reader comments are requested. Ideas of a clinic or how to best approach the tattooing of local dogs will be submitted to the local veterinary society.

"Is There a Doctor in the Barn" by Elizabeth Yates is a book which should be read by anyone considering a career in veterinary medicine.

Did you know in Brighton, England a clairvoyant does "canine readings?" One day each month she devotes to "doggy horoscopes."

Overheard: Two Carmel ladies in conversation about a mutual friend. Commented one, "She's so self-centered, always talking about her dog. Sometimes I like to talk about MY dog."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor

What has happened to the freedom of speech?

Tuesday Jan. 16, as an observer, I attended a joint meeting of the representatives of the Cities of Monterey County and the Board of Supervisors, for the purpose of discussing Regional Planning.

I saw Chairman Bob Wood of the Board of Supervisors assume dictatorial power and warn the people he would not tolerate one word from the audience. Throughout the two hours of the hearing there were numerous attempts by people in the audience to get the floor, each attempt was ruthlessly gavelled down by Chairman Wood who ruled the meeting with an iron hand.

I ask you once again, what has happened to freedom of speech? Where do the people we hire to spend our money get the power to silence all opposition, while they plan how our money should be spent.

An interested observer.

My Most Interesting Trip

By Brian W. Ashurst

A circular tour covering about 200 miles in a week does not sound a very promising start to an interesting trip. But if the circuit consists of parts of the Shropshire Union, Trent and Mersey, and Macclesfield Canals in the heart of rural England, the prospect is much more enticing!

Within the confines of Nellie—6 feet wide and 32 feet long—four of us were to eat, sleep, sunbathe, play cards, but above all, WORK, for seven days from sunrise to dark. Nellie was comfortable but cramped. Her single-cylinder donkey engine functioned adequately and, on a straight, wide stretch of waterway and helped by a following wind, she could attain five miles an hour.

Her tiller was not so predictable. It was loose and habitually took 100 yards to respond to any change of direction. This we quickly got used to and it did not matter too much—the wake bouncing off both banks kept us roughly in mid-channel!

The compulsory hooter was out of action, so the hiring company provided us with a gigantic canister with a handle and plunger, which when plunged gave a passable imitation of the Queen Mary.

A problem to be overcome was negotiating locks. We'd had verbal instructions before leaving, but our first encounter with the real thing was awe-inspiring and filled us with dread.

Entering a lock in the rising direction, the canal suddenly presents a solid wall to you—great, towering, dripping black masonry precipices, 30 feet high, creep menacingly nearer. Before going in, two of the crew would jump ashore with the keys (yes, locks have keys!) and disappear over the summit. The two left on board slowly edged between the cavernous cliffs and stopped the boat at the centre. Then behind us the narrow vista of bright green fields and friendly, familiar black and white cows would slowly disappear as the massive gates were swung shut.

Up there in the sunshine, our comrades now ran to the top end of the lock to open the sluices. As the giant's bath began to fill up, we stood by the throttle ready to steady the boat as the current caught her. What a panic! Instead of drifting backwards, as we had expected, we were being sucked rapidly forward towards the top gates! We found reverse just in time to prevent damage to the boat and gates—next time we were wiser.

Although we learned to get through locks in four minutes, they never quite lost their sinister, treacherous aura. A rather ghostly tale hangs on the Harecastle Tunnel, where the same canal dives beneath the hills, and then for two eerie miles slinks through another world. Arriving too late to enter the tunnel, we decided to moor for the night. Unknowingly, we tied up in the turning basin opposite the tunnel mouth, and early next morning were rudely awakened by deafening hoots and shouts as a train of barges came out of the tunnel straight towards us! That was the first, and only, time we cast off in our pyjamas, and it was under the mocking gaze of rush-hour workers passing by on the street above!

Mostly the scenery was beautiful: soft, green and pastoral. Think of a picture of the traditional view of England, and that was it. Only once was it industrial, when we passed through long ranks of steel works and foundries. Here we could see into the factories and slowed down to admire the glowing furnaces and other heroic activities.

I have not mentioned at all the delightful towns and villages we passed through and explored; nor our battle with a hungry herd of Her Majesty's swans; nor the panic in their ranks as we bore down on a girls' school canoeing lesson; but I hope I have said enough to indicate that the best way to see England is at four miles an hour, in a boat.

Burglars Enter

Carmel Men's Shop

Monday evening burglars entered the Oxbridge Men's Shop on Dolores between Ocean and 7th and made off with several racks of sport jackets, sweaters, slacks, ties and shirts.

An estimated total value was established at $6000. The thieves, or thief, used the roof skylight for their entrance.

OBITUARIES

Miss Charlotte F. Kett: 74, another link with early Carmel, died on Sunday. For years she lived at "Kett Cott", her home on Camino Real near Santa Lucia. Native of Berkeley, she was a graduate of U.C. at Berkeley in 1912.

During World War I she served in Europe with the Red Cross working with refugees at Dunkirk. She stayed on in England for a number of years doing editorial work. She appeared as an amateur in many plays in Europe and in Carmel, at both the Forest Theatre and the Golden Bough theatres.

She was active for many years with the American Friends Society, and for the past five years lived at Carmel Valley Manor.

She is survived by her brother, Laurance T. T. Kett of Novato, California, Phyllis C. Hecker of San Francisco, a nephew, Stewart B. Kett of Watsonville, and a niece, Patricia K. Laughlin of Berkeley.

Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Sidney F. "Jack" Flower, 77, Carmel resident for 13 years, died Monday. His wife Laurie, died last November. Paul Mortuary was in charge of services.

'Harvey' Opens Tomorrow Night At Circle Theatre

Norman McPhee, director-manager of the Community Theatre of Monterey Peninsula announces a sparkling cast of Golden Bough Players to appear in the rollicking comedy, "Harvey" scheduled to open at the Circle Theatre in Carmel on Friday evening (Feb. 16).

Heading the cast will be Mike Keller as the lovable, slightly looney, "Elwood P. Dowd" the gentleman-who-sees-the-rabbit. Widely experienced as a director as well as an actor in professional theatre, Mr. Keller has just returned from Hollywood where he appeared in the latest Elvis Presley film, playing a character role.

A trio of local "star" comedienne will aid and abet "Elwood" in his frantic pursuit of happiness. All three are former professional actresses who have given generously their time and talent to the Community Theatre.

Ruth McElroy, Carmel's own, will appear as "Veta Louise" who is confused.

Versatile Gertrude Chapell, as accomplished in drama as she is in comedy, is cast as feather-brained "Betty Chumley."

Antic Betty Fowlston, mistress of mad, mad stage situations will give her interpretation of "Mrs. Ethel Chauvenet" who remains a lady no matter what!

In the two ingenue roles will be Carolyn Evans, a "veteran" of three local theatre comedies, and Joanne Nix, daughter of Joanne and Dudley Nix of Carmel. Young Joanne will be making her debut as an actress.

William Withers, in the role of "Dr. Chumley, Psychiatrist" last appeared on the Circle stage in the autumn production of "Hedda Gabler."

"Lyman Sanderson, M.D." will be played by John Soprano who will be remembered for his outstanding performance in "Patience."

Ed Shinbrot, last seen at Circle in "The Mad Woman of Chailot," will play the strenuous role of the strong armed male nurse-for-loonies.

Harry Graham of Pacific Grove, long identified as one of the Community Theatre's greatest supporters, as "Judge Omar Gafney" will complete the cast.

Almost 5000 Cars Use Carmel Valley Road Each Day

Supervisor Willard Branson announced the results of a traffic study conducted on Carmel Valley Road, within the recently established 55-miles-an-hour zone. The reduced speed limit went into effect on October 27, 1966.

Traffic conditions that existed for the "year before" have been compared with those of the "year after" the speed limit was posted. The study revealed that traffic volume has increased by 400 vehicles a day on Carmel Valley Road to now average nearly 5,000 vehicles per day. The increase amounts to 3% in one year. The traffic volumes on this road are approaching, and west of Schulte Road exceed, the traffic volumes on Highway 101 south of King City, sometimes referred to as "Blood Alley".

Although traffic volumes have increased on Carmel Valley Road, both the average speed and accident rate have been reduced. The study showed that while the number of accidents have been reduced, the single car which ran-off-the road during darkness, remains the most predominant type of traffic accident.

Supervisor Branson has urged motorists to use extreme care during hours of darkness, particularly during these winter months.

Suicide Prevention Telephone Number

A new lifeline went into operation on Valentine's Day. It is the telephone number 373-3412, which will reach the Monterey County Suicide Prevention Center.

This bureau, sponsored by the Monterey County Association for Mental Health, will function on a 24-hour basis to help despondent persons. There is no charge. The service is staffed by trained volunteers to whom anyone bent upon self-destruction may turn quickly for advice.

Events Scheduled

Launched by the appearances of Dr. Robert Hutchins and the Zurich Chamber Octet early this month, Monterey Peninsula College's spring community events program will feature a wide variety of lectures, forums, concerts and films.

Lectures will include: anthropologist Oscar Lewis, speaking on "The Culture of Poverty," March 23; comedian Dick Gregory, April 5; anthropologist Dr. Santiago Genoves of Mexico, April 19; and Ralph Nader, nemesis of the automobile industry, lecturing on "Unsafe at Any Speed," May 4. All lectures will be free to the public, though tickets must be obtained at the college in advance.

Under the heading of "music and variety" will be offered: vibraphonist Cal Tjader, Feb. 28; pianist Istvan Nadas, May 3; actor Jack Aranson and his wife Mary Rose McMaster in "All the World's a Stage," March 8; "Frula," a Yugoslav Folk Ensemble, May 10 (to be staged at Sunset Center Auditorium, Carmel); and Peter Arnot's Marionette Theater, May 11. In addition, the MPC drama department will present a production of Shakespeare's "Othello" and the college chorus and band will appear in concert.

Forums will include a free income tax forum for members of the community Feb. 29 and March 7, 14 and 21 (Thursday evenings); "The Home Environment," an interior decorating forum, March 5, 12, 19 and 26 (Tuesday evenings); and Andor Czompo, Hungarian folk dancer, in the two evenings of instruction in the performance of group dances, March 13 and 14.

MPC's spring film series will feature screenings of "The Horse's Mouth," Feb. 23; "Darling," March 16; "Marty," April 12; "Shoot the Piano Player," April 26; "Phaedra," May 10; and "Nothing but a Man," May 25.

Critical Need for Space at High and Middle Schools

Carmel High School is fast approaching its capacity of 1000 students, with present enrollment at 955 and 974 projected for 1968-69, according to a report by Superintendent Dr. Harris A. Taylor to the Carmel School Board last evening. Middle School has a capacity of 850 with present enrollment at 780, projected enrollment for next year of 818. Tularcitos School, with a capacity of 475, has already exceeded that number by 18 with a projected enrollment next year of 527. This is using a ratio of 25 students to one teacher.

The five per cent growth in pupil enrollment creates a need for five classrooms yearly. This growth may accelerate if 1200 building sites east of Highway 1 are built up soon.

Inasmuch as it takes a school district about two years to complete a new facility after the need has been identified and funds for construction approved, the school board is starting a series of study sessions on the subject.

Report Card Delay

The board asked for the reason for the recent delay in getting the report cards out. It was told that it was not due to a change to a computer system, but to a revision of a behavioral report which a committee had been meeting to make, so that the reports would be more in detail and more meaningful to the parent.

No Right or Wrong Way

Betty Roth, first and second grade teacher at Carmelo School, whose principal is Edwin McCurry, brought her children with her to demonstrate a new movement exploration program for physical education for elementary schools, developed in Europe. The program emphasizes individuality rather than regimentation, cooperation rather than competition.

Children are commanded, for example, to show how they can walk, run, or skip happily, angrily, high, low, quietly. They may be given a rope and asked to do "2 plus 1" or "5-1", requiring another child, or make letters of the alphabet with it.

New French Teacher

A new French and Spanish teacher at the Carmel High School, Mrs. Fiorella Weaver, was approved by the board. Her experience has been in St. Louis, Mo., and in Korea.

Leave of absence without pay extension for Frederic Rainer who is teaching in the American Academy in Athens, Greece, was approved. It was denied Mrs. Betty Miller who is teaching in another school district in California.

Bids for Supplies

Walter Finton, Business Manager, was authorized to advertise for bids on classroom, art, audio-visual and office supplies for 1968-69. This will make for better control, economy and save time in checking deliveries.

Hinton also presented a financial report of budgeted money spent so far, with a request for transfer of Undistributed Reserve Funds to the transportation and maintenance departments, and a request for authorization to obtain price quotations and award swimming pool renovation contract.

Extra bus use for late activities, ceramics, split reading groups, MPC industrial education, fire science, additional Robles Area and Cachagua Area extensions were cited as reasons. The maintenance program is running ahead of schedule. In all, a transfer of $14,353 was requested and approved.

Vocational Education

Arthur Gumbrell, principal of the high school reported that 50 students were availing themselves of the opportunity to attend the advanced placement, vocational technical courses at MPC in data processing, police science, electronics and dental technician courses.

This is a saving of two classroom spaces and the time of two teachers, he pointed out. There are 15 students taking advanced placement academic courses there, he said. These are authorized under Assembly bill 2364 of April 11, 1967 by which 15 per cent of grades 11 and 12 may attend the junior college in advanced placement or vocational technical courses.

fund. It will come from the bequest to the Society by Mrs. Eleanor Montross White.

The Nathaniel and Margaret Owings Foundation agreed to match, on a one-for-two basis, the remainder of this initial sum, which at that time was about $6000. Over the weekend, an anonymous donor pledged $1000 for the photographic print, "Siesta Lake, Yosemite National Park" given by Ansel Adams—on display at the Monterey branch of United California Bank.

Nature Conservancy of the Peninsula, numbering 52 members, pledged $1000 of their dues treasury of $1100.

The Crosby Youth Fund announced a $1000 donation, bringing the total to slightly over $40,000.

The committee will be happy to take anyone up to the peak if they will call him, said McDaniels of Carmel Highlands. They would like to set up some group appointments for Saturday morning. The number to call is 624-8152.

Alliance Francaise Mi-Careme Dinner Dance

The Alliance Francaise of the Monterey Peninsula will sponsor its annual Mi-Careme (Mid-Lenten) Dinner Dance on Thursday, March 21, at the Casa Munras. This popular event is a costume party and the proceeds go toward the Scholarship Fund which will send a student of French to Paris next summer to study at the school of the Alliance. Further details will be announced by co-presidents Mrs. Jerome Carlson and Mrs. James Hathaway and Mi-Careme General Chairman Mrs. John Dowdakin.
